About University of Guam Press

The University of Guam Press (UOG Press) publishes an array of academic and literary books and journals with a specific focus on the unique history, environment, peoples, cultures, and languages of the islands that make up the Western Pacific region. The University of Guam Press strives to increase the availability of exceptional scholarly and literary texts that can be used as learning resources about Guam and Micronesia for people and institutions in the region and throughout the world.

UOG Press is an integral part of the Richard Flores Taitano Micronesian Area Research Center (MARC), which holds the most extensive repository of information about Guam and Micronesia. UOG Press extends the MARC's mission of collecting, preserving, and providing access to reliable and accurate information about the peoples and cultures of the Western Pacific, thereby advancing scholarship and learning in and about the region.

UOG Press has two major publishing components – MARC Publications and Taiguini Books.

MARC Publications is dedicated to publishing research-based, evidence-driven academic texts primarily focused on historical and contemporary issues impacting the social, political, economic, and sustainable development of Western Pacific islands and communities.

Taiguini Books publishes cultural and indigenous literature for adult and children, with the goal of capturing and preserving the eloquence and depth of the region's dynamic storytelling tradition in written form.

The University of Guam also publishes four journals:

Micronesica (<http://micronesica.org>), a multidisciplinary, peer review journal encompassing natural science topics from Micronesia and the surrounding Pacific region, which is available for free online.

Micronesian Educator (http://www.soeuog.x10.mx/micronesian_ed.html), which features scholarly articles from a wide range of educational research and related disciplines concerning education in Micronesia and is produced by the School of Education and distributed by UOG Press.

Pacific Asia Inquiry (<http://www.uog.edu/schools-and-colleges/college-of-liberal-arts-and-social-sciences/publications/pacific-asia-inquiry-4>), a peer reviewed on-line journal dedicated to showcasing works on the Pacific Asia Region and to advancing knowledge and understanding of this region.

Storyboard: A Journal of Pacific Imagery (<http://www.uog.edu/schools-and-colleges/college-of-liberal-arts-and-social-sciences/publications/storyboard>), which features quality poetry, fiction, non-fiction, and visual art and is produced by the Division of English and Applied Linguistics and distributed by UOG Press.

Undergraduate Research Journal of Micronesia (www.uog.edu/uogpress/publications/urjm), a scholar-reviewed annual online journal that features original research produced by undergraduate students focused on topics/issues related to Micronesia.

Community-driven publishing.

The efforts of UOG Press and MARC are guided by elders in the community and an array of scholars, writers, students and cultural experts.

Title: An Islander's Voice
Author: Frederick B. Quinene
Year of Publication: 2018
Cost: $15

Description:

An Islander's Voice, a collection of poems by Guam's Poet Laureate Frederick B. Quinene, offers a unique perspective on love, life, family, culture, and politics on Guam from the powerful voice of a proud islander. This collection is Mr. Quinene's gift to the people of Guam –a small glimpse into the world of a humble man, and a true survivor.

Authors' Bios:

Recognizing Mr. Quinene's ability to make a difference with his poetry, former Governor Ricardo J. Bordallo officially declared him the Poet Laureate of his administration on August 4, 1986, stating, "Fred Quinene has been blessed with the gift of a poetic pen, and possesses the ability to write beautiful, lyrical sonnets ... and this gift should not go unnoticed and is most certainly a source of pride for all of Guam." Mr. Quinene was born 76 years ago in the middle of World War II and survived to live a long life. Despite battling cancer, he remains strong and dedicated to his love for his family and his gift of poetry.

Title: Kinalamten gi Pasifiku
Compiled by: Ta Tuge' Mo'na
Illustrator: Cielo de los Reyes
Year of Publication: 2018
Cost: $15

Description:

Kinalamten Gi Pasifiku: Insights from Oceania is an anthology of prose, poetry and artwork featuring 40 contributors from across Oceania, who offer a contemporary and bold snapshot of life in the Pacific. The writings in Kinalamten Gi Pasifiku focus on modern perspectives in colonized Pacifica. Each work is a bonding between oceanic life and personal thought. In her Foreword to the anthology, Dr. Laura Torres Souder describes the collection as “speaking the unspeakable”. Souder explains that through their writing and art, the anthology’s contributors “dare to expose sublimated contractions and use their critical consciousness to heal wounded hearts.” Kinalamten Gi Pasifiku is the premier publication of Ta Tuge' Mo'na, a Non-Profit Organization that supports literary communities in Guam and contributes to the development of a written literary tradition that expresses local and regional perspectives.

Title: History of the Marianas Islands

Authors: Luis de Morales, S.J. & Charles Le Gobien, S.J.

Edited and commented by: Alexandre Coello de la Rosa

Year of Publication: 2016

Cost: $20

Description: Histoire des isles Marianes (History of the Mariana Islands), written in Paris in 1700, provides a detailed glimpse into a tumultuous and critically significant period in the history of the Mariana Islands and the Chamorro people – the period commonly referred to as the Spanish-Chamorro Wars. Using research conducted in several national and international archives in Madrid, Barcelona, Rome, and at the Richard F. Taitano Micronesian Area Research Center in Guam, Alexandre Coello de la Rosa produced this English translation of the first Spanish edition (Madrid, 2013) of the Histoire des isles Marianes (Paris, 1700), by Charles Le Gobien. This present edition stems from a manuscript preserved in the Arxiu de la Companyia de Jesus a Catalunya, in Barcelona, attributed to Father Luis de Morales, who had been part of the Jesuit mission to the Marianas. Thus, this text calls into question the authorship of Father Le Gobien. Not only because the French Jesuit never stepped foot in the Marianas, but also because his Histoire is based on reports, relations and letters written by other fellow Jesuits, among whom was Father Morales. This book opens with a long introduction analyzing the context of production of the Histoire, together with an annotated edition of the book over ten chapters. Finally, it includes short chronologies of the governors of the Marianas corresponding to the period between 1668 and 1700, as well as the lists of the Viceroys of New Spain (1664-1701) and the Governors and General Captains of the Philippines (1669-1701).

Editor's Bio: Alexandre Coello de la Rosa (Barcelona, 1968) received his Ph.D. in History from SUNY at Stony Brook, USA (2001). He is editor-in-chief of the journal Illes i Imperis and is currently doing research at the Universitat Pompeu Fabra, Department of Humanities. He is a member of the research group Imperis, Metròpolis i Societats Extraeuropees (GRIMSE) and Ethnographies, Cultural Encounters and Religious Missions in the Iberian World (ECERM) at the same University, as well as an associate member of the Richard F. Taitano Micronesian Area Research Center (MARC) at the University of Guam. He specializes in colonial Latin American history, the ecclesiastical history of Peru and the Philippines, historical anthropology, and chronicles of the Indies. Some of his recent publications include Jesuits at the Margins: Missions and Missionaries in the Marianas (London & New York: Routledge, 2016) and Elogio a la antropología histórica: enfoques, métodos y aplicaciones al estudio del poder y el colonialismo (Zaragoza: Publicaciones de la Universidad de Zaragoza & UOC, 2016).

Title: The Life and Martyrdom of the Venerable Father Diego Luis de San Vitores, S.J.

Author: Francisco Garcia, S.J.

Edited by: James A. McDonough, S.J.

Year of Publication: 2004

Cost: $35

Description:

As a collection of official and unofficial letters and documents in addition to testimonies collected shortly after Fr. San Vitores' death, Fr. Garcia's book depicts both the life of Diego Luis de San Vitores, S.J. and a narrative of events in the Mariana Islands from 1672 to 1681. The scope of the book includes not just the four brief years of San Vitores' life on Guam, but another ten years of missionary work following his death. The volume offers a detailed narrative of the early critical years of mission activity between 1668 and 1682 in this earliest of mission fields in Oceania. As a historical source for this period, Garcia's book is indispensable.

Editor Bio:

James A. McDonough, S.J. received a doctorate in Classical Philology from Harvard University (1953). He has published two critical editions of works by Gregory of Nyssa under the auspices of the Harvard Institute for Classical Studies in the Netherlands: Inscriptiones Psalmorum Brill, 1962 and Contra Fatum Brill 1987. He was a distinguished professor of languages and literature as well as an administrator at the University of Guam from 1969-1994 when retired and shortly thereafter was given Emeritus status.

Title: Lepers in the Mariana Islands During the Spanish Administration 1668-1898 & Addenda (1899-1949)

Compiled, Transcribed, and Translated by: Marjorie G. Driver

Year of Publication: 2007

Cost: $12

Description:

Toward the end of the 1600s, the presence of a “kind of leprosie” was recognized among the people of the Mariana Islands. Spanish authorities attempted to isolate the lepers in the most vacant islands they could find nearby, which happened to be Saipan and Tinian. Carolinians were then brought in to work on the islands, supporting the hospitals that cared for the lepers. This compilation of references pertaining to leprosy portrays the times of the Spanish Administration, giving today’s readers a descriptive glimpse of the era.

Title: Guam Diary of Naturalist Antonio De Pineda, 1792

Translated by: Victor F. Mallada

Edited by: Marjorie G. Driver

Year of Publication: 1990

Cost: $7

Description:

Antonio de Pineda y Ramirez was both a military officer and scientist for the Spanish crown, being most famous for his botanical research. Heading the scientific expedition under the auspices of King Carlos III, he sailed across the world collecting data in different countries, which eventually lead him to the Mariana Islands in 1792. After spending twelve days on Guam, he observed both the geological and zoological aspects of Fort Santo Angel, a small fortification at the entrance to Umatac Bay. Shortly after his departure from Guam, he passed away, leaving behind valuable scientific information about the island.

Title: The Importance of the Mariana Islands to Spain at the Beginning of the Nineteenth Century
Author: Teresa del Valle
Year of Publication: 1991
Cost: $7

Description:

The purpose of this study is to investigate the importance of the Mariana Islands to Spain at the beginning of the 19th century when the Spanish Empire had fallen into decadence and had begun to suffer the loss of its overseas possessions. There is a void in the 19th century literature of the Marianas, a period during which it has been succinctly said the islands were ignored by Spain, yet writers have failed to explain the reasons for the lack of attention or the conditions in the islands at the time. This void is the focus of the study.

Author Bio:

Teresa del Valle was born in Donostia, in northern Spain. She was awarded a Master of Arts degree in History from Saint Louis University in 1969, and a Master of Arts degree in Anthropology by the University of Hawaii in 1974. Later, she was a grantee at the East West Center and was awarded a Ph.D in Anthropology from the University of Hawaii in 1978. Between 1968 and 1972, she taught in the History Department of the University of Guam and also served as a member of the research faculty at MARC. From 1975-1976, she conducted fieldwork on Guam in the village of Umatac, and in 1979, MARC published her dissertation under the title, Social and Cultural Change in the Village of Umatac, Southern Guam.

Title: Description of the Mariana Islands by Manuel Sanz, Manila, 1827

Translated by: Marjorie G. Driver

Year of Publication: 1991

Cost: $7

Description:

Don Manuel Sanz, a retired captain of the Infantry, was sent to Agaña by Mariano Ricafort, Governor and Captain General of the Philippines, to serve as the Juez de Residencia (residence judge) for Don Jose de Ganga Herrero, who had been relieved of the governorship of the Mariana Islands in late 1825. It was Judge Sanz's duty to carry out the residencia, a judicial process whereby he would hear whatever complaints there might be against the outgoing governor, then report them to the Audiencia in Manila. While writing the judicial report, Captain Sanz wrote a manuscript describing the Mariana Islands, which was translated to English and presented in this book.

Title: Chronicle of the Mariana Islands Recorded in the Agaña Parish Church 1846-1899

Authors: Father Aniceto Ibanez del Carmen, O.A.R. & Father Francisco Resano del Corazón de Jesús, O.A.R.

Translated, Annotated, and Edited by: Marjorie G. Driver & Omaira Brunal-Perry

Year of Publication: 1998

Cost: $20

Description:

Over time, the people of the Mariana Islands, the Chamorros, have been subjected to the ravishes of natural disasters, pestilence, war, and myriads of disquieting circumstances. After the arrival of the Spanish missionaries in the islands, such events were recorded, first by the Jesuits (1668-1769), and later by their successors, the Augustinian Recollects (1789-1908). The many Jesuit records have long been available; those of the Augustinians have been conspicuous by their absence.

In 1969, an abridged version of a long sought after nineteenth century register, or chronicle, known to have been kept in the Agana parish church was presented to the Micronesian Area Research Center, thereby confirming the survival of at least portions of the parish's Libro de cosas notables (The Book of Notable Things). For today's readers, the Chronicle of the Mariana Islands is a treasure-trove of Chamorro nineteenth century memorabilia.

Title: The Mariana Islands, 1884-1887: Random Notes (Second Edition)

Author: Francisco Olive y Garcia

Translated and Annotated by: Marjorie G. Driver

Year of Publication: 2006

Cost: $20

Description:

This report written by Governor Francisco Olive contains his insights about the social, political, and economic conditions of the Marianas. He focuses on the underdevelopment of the islands and draws the Spanish Government to look back at the colony's history, specifically the second half of the 19th century. The report reflects the colonial mentality of Olive, who stresses the responsibility of the Spanish Government to the inhabitants of the Marianas, leaving unchallenged the right of Spain to maintain its sovereignty over the islands.

Title: The Mariana Islands: A Report by Antoine-Alfred Marche, 1887

Author: Antoine-Alfred Marche

Year of Publication: 1982

Cost: $7

Description:

The purpose of this paper is to translate in its entirety Antoine-Alfred Marche's report to the Paris museum on his mission to the Mariana Islands. The general report was well written, identifying the geographical locations of the islands and the resources it contained. His analysis of the Chamorros and Carolinians is clearly defined by including both social and political aspects in his in-depth research. The report was based on both his personal observations and information collected from Spanish officials. It is arranged in chronological order and in such a manner that the translator chose to avoid embellishment in order to keep the simplicity and conciseness of the report.

Author Bio:

Antoine-Alfred Marche (1844-1898) was a French explorer, ethnographer, and scientist who contributed extensively to Europe's knowledge of the Philippines and the Marianas- island groups in the Pacific Ocean. His greatest published work, Lucon et Palaouan: six annees de voyage aux Philippines, appeared after his extensive stay there (1879-1881, 1882-1883), and is considered a major scientific study of the Philippines in the 19th century. After Marche's visit to the Mariana Islands (1887-1889) and his return to France, he was assigned to Tunis as a librarian-archivist in the Department of Commerce and Agriculture. He returned to Paris where he died in 1898.

World War II History

Title: Tinian and the Bomb: Project Alberta and Operation Centerboard

Author: Don A. Farrell

Year of Publication: 2018

Cost: $35

Description:

Tinian and the Bomb chronicles the important and often overlooked role Tinian in the Mariana Islands played in the atomic bombing of Japan at the end of World War II. As part of the Manhattan Project, Project Alberta and Operation Centerboard, Tinian was integral in the plan to drop atomic bombs on Japan. The book captures this history as gathered from documents and images held in the National Archives, Record Group 77. The book documents how the Army Corps of Engineers, guided by the Los Alamos Laboratory in cooperation with the US Army Air Forces and the US Navy and its Seabees, constructed facilities on Tinian capable of assembling and delivering as many atomic bombs as necessary to bring WWII to a successful end without an invasion of the Japanese home islands. As predicted, two atomic bombs, one uranium and one plutonium, were launched from Tinian and dropped in rapid succession, resulting in the unconditional surrender of Japanese military forces. This prevented the political partition of Japan (as happened with Korea and Germany) and led to the US-Japan security alliance that remains the cornerstone of peace in the Pacific today.

Author Bio:

Don A. Farrell came to Guam from California as a teacher in 1977. He taught at Inarajan Junior High and John F. Kennedy High School. Three years later, in 1980, he switched careers to become a public relations officer for the Guam Legislature. He was the chief of staff to the Speaker of the Guam Legislature, Carl Gutierrez, from 1982 to 1986. In 1980, he founded Micronesian Productions and began publishing books. Farrell moved to Tinian in 1987 where he continues to do historical research, write and teach.

Title: Bisita Guam: Let Us Remember Nihì Ta Hasso

Author: Ben Blaz

Year of Publication: 2008

Cost: $12.50

Description:

Although the people of Guam have been affected either directly or indirectly by many wars, the Japanese occupation of Guam during World War II (1941-44) is the war by which periods in modern-day Guam are divided: antes de i guerra, durante i guerra, and despues de i guerra (before the war, during the war, and after the war). This first-hand account of the war experience on Guam tells the story of the author's family and their neighbors. Their stories reflect the experiences of thousands of Chamorro families who survived the war, and provide a glimpse at what life was like on Guam during those horrendous years.

Author Bio:

Ben Blaz is a native Chamorro who was 13 years old when Guam was invaded and occupied by Japan during WWII. Inspired by the fighting spirit of the Marines who liberated Guam, he became one himself upon receiving his bachelor's degree from the University of Notre Dame in 1951. He earned an MA degree from George Washington University; was designated a Distinguished Graduate by the Naval War College; and, received an LLD from the University of Guam. He retired from the Marine Corps in 1980 as a Brigadier General; taught at the University of Guam; and served in the U.S. Congress for four terms as Guam's Representative. He was honored as a Distinguished Alumnus by Notre Dame in 1988 and, in 2004, was entered in Who's Who in Marine Corps History. Blaz's commitment to the preservation of the Chamorro language and culture prompted him to write and produce a series of TV shows, Nihì Ta Hasso and Nihì Ta Bisita; to write a concise history of Guam, Bisita Guam: A Special Place in the Sun; and to maintain a cultural preservation website bisitaguam.com.

Description:

The Organic Act of Guam and related federal laws provide the framework for the government of Guam. This publication's purpose is to present the fundamental laws creating the Territory of Guam and its government. Similarly, while there have been many cases interpreting various aspects of the Organic Act, this publication includes only appellate ones. It also contains all amendments made through June 11, 2001.

Author Bio:

Charles H. Troutman spent his formative years in grade and high school as an American in Sydney, Australia before spending his senior year of high school in Illinois. After earning a B.A. in anthropology, a law school diploma, and a master's degree in comparative law, he came to Guam as a lawyer in the Attorney General's Office. Since then, Mr. Troutman has served a term as the Attorney General of Guam, served as counsel for Guam's Commission on Self Determination, and was the Guam Compiler of Laws when he wrote this publication.

Title: The Search for a Cause: An Anthropological Perspective on a Neurological Disease in Guam, Western Pacific

Author: Verena Keck

Year of Publication: 2011

Cost: $40

Description:

In this anthropological study of Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis/Parkinsonism-Dementia Complex (ALS/PDC) in Guam, Keck intertwines three separate perspectives of history, medicine and anthropology. This work is an important contribution to the decolonizing of biomedical research and argues that neurological diseases can be better understood if they are also seen as social and cultural phenomena. With sound ethnography linked to current controversial debates in neurology, Keck breaks new ground; her insights add to the hitherto few anthropological studies of neurodegenerative diseases in non-Western societies.

Author Bio:

Verena Keck is Privatdozent (lecturer) in Anthropology at the University of Frankfurt at Main. She has carried out field research among the Yupno people in Papua New Guinea; in Guam, Western Pacific; and in Bali, Indonesia. Her research interests are in medical anthropology, identity and aging, and contemporary issues in Pacific cultures. She also authored Social Discord and Bodily Disorders: Healing among the Yupno of Papua New Guinea (Durham 2005), edited Common Worlds and Single Lives: Constituting Knowledge in Pacific Societies (1998) and has published numerous articles in international journals.

Title: Children of Chuuk Lagoon

Author: Mary L. Spencer

Year of Publication: 2015

Cost: $12

Description:

Children of Chuuk Lagoon examines the everyday lives of school-aged children in the Chuuk Lagoon island of Romonum in the Federated States of Micronesia. The book documents the natural histories, and home and school experiences of 12 case-study children ranging in age from 6 to 14. Observations presented in the book include the daily activities Romonum children engage in and the types of teaching and learning patterns represented in their home and school settings. The book also assesses the language experiences of the case-study children and the goals of Romonum parents, educators, and community leaders for their children's futures. Adults also shared their impressions on the outcomes of the U.S. Compact of Free Association in their community.

Author Bio:

Dr. Mary L. Spencer is Dean Emerita of the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences at the University of Guam. She is also a retired Professor of Psychology and Micronesian Studies at the Richard Flores Taitano Micronesian Area Research Center. She currently resides in Hawaii. Her research interests are primarily focused on the Micronesian region.

Title: Father Delix K. Yaoch, S.J.: Island Priest
Conceptualized, Compiled, and Edited by: Donald R. Shuster
Year of Publication: 2009
Cost: $10

Description:

As much autobiography as biography, this book celebrates the life and work of Palau's Felix K. Yaoch, S.J. It is composed of conversations with Fr. Felix, a legend, a statement before U.S. Congress, a Tia Belau news article and several articles written by Fr. Felix, including a little known paper about Palau's indigenous belief system, Modekngei, and others based on his recollections and the written record, and 16 essays.

Author Bio:

Donald R. Shuster earned a BA in philosophy (1962) and an MS in biological sciences (1969) from Michigan State University. He then went on to earn a doctorate from the University of Hawaii in education and Pacific history in 1982. He is a professor emeritus with the University of Guam Richard F. Taitano Micronesian Area Research Center (MARC). Shuster has written, edited and published numerous articles on Guam and the Republic of Palau.

Comments: "Fr. Felix radiated caring and loving kindness. He paid attention to people no matter what his own circumstances were... other people came before his own needs. He would receive anybody and always had time for people. He could have been up all night, have many tasks of his own to do, and still he gave his time to others, to those in need ... There is no one like him." - Tia Belau News

Baseball in Palau: Passion for the Game

Title: Baseball in Palau: Passion for the Game From 1925-2007
Conceptualized, Compiled, and Edited by: Donald R. Shuster
Year of Publication: 2008
Cost: $28

Description:

When Motoji Kono, a Japanese worker in Palau, gathered young Palauan men and formed the first all Palau team of all-stars, he fathered a passion for baseball that continues today. The game transformed Palauan culture by becoming popular among villages, replacing village warfare with fierce baseball competitions. Baseball then grew in Palau as evident in their international success against other islands in Micronesia including Guam, Chuuk, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands and Pohnpei. Most notably, Palau won the gold medal in both the 1969 and 1998 Micronesian Games.

This book highlights these events in chronological order beginning with the founding of baseball in Palau to the gold place finish at the 1998 Micronesian Games. It also showcases worldclass Palauan teams like Ngerbeched and Airai, who rose to baseball dominance in the country and led their teams to victories. It also explores how baseball became deeply rooted in the Palauan culture, not just as a national pastime, but also as a symbol of Palauan pride.

Title: Pacific Islands Educational Leadership Summit

Edited by: Joyce K. McCauley, Ph.D; Evelyn Flores-Mays, M.A.; Craig D. Lewis, Ed.D; Daniel S. McCauley, Ed.D; Clarissa Quan, Ph.D

Year of Publication: 1993, 1994 (second printing)

Cost: $20

Description:

The Pacific Islands Educational Leadership Summit offered a forum to major educational leaders of the Pacific Basin to share experiences, perspectives and aspirations regarding the future of Pacific education. The summit covered five major themes: cultural survival in times of rapid change, economic development in small societies, relationships between Pacific Rim countries and former colonial powers, commonalities and differences in educational systems of Pacific countries, and establishing/ maintaining Pacific Island linkages. This volume contains the keynote speeches for each of the five summit days plus summaries of the panel discussions that followed. Also included are the resolutions and the Pacific Educator's Statement of Philosophy proposed by the discussion groups.

Title: Pacific History Papers from the 8th Pacific History Association Conference

Edited by: Donald H. Rubinstein

Year of Publication: 1992

Cost: $17

Description:

The papers in this collection originated as presentations at the 8th Pacific History Association conference, “Micronesia: Intellectual Images and Historical Discourses,” where nearly 200 participants from over twenty countries attended and enriched themselves in the ingenuity of Pacific history. This conference was also the first one held in Micronesia, where more than half of the presentations examined Micronesia history specifically. Out of the sixty-five presentations, forty-three appear in this collection representing different disciplines and studies all pertaining to Pacific history. Topics ranging from anthropology to education were discussed, showcasing a rich diversity among Pacific countries. It is this diversity that the conference focused on, not only by acknowledging this difference, but also pointing out why people should nurture and embrace it.

Editor Bio:
